Miss Katherine Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carter, now living in Sanmaur, Quebec, Canada, is a sophomore at Tufts College and a member of the Chi Omega sorority. She played on the class basketball team and is a member of the Romance Club, Student Council, and Masque, the new dramatic society.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bennett, entertained at bridge Saturday evening, March 31. There were three tables at play and the appointments were carried out appropriate to the Easter season.

The highest score went to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sanborn and second to Mrs. Lucian Littlehale and Edward Bennett. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Lord and Miss Mary Thurston.

A dance sponsored by the American Legion will be held at Newry Corner Friday night to help defray the expense of the tablet given by the Legion for the memorial erected this winter at Newry Corner.

Transportation to the dance will be furnished free by the Legion and all wishing to go will please leave their names at Ramsell's store or at Roy Moore's. The truck will leave the postoffice at 7.30.

THE OLD ACADEMY TO THE NEW

Cast aside like a garment outgrown, I watch my successor arise. Your halls more spacious than mine, Your dome reaches nearer the skies.

The future before is spread, A scroll time alone can unfold. Mine is the glorious past, My achievements, a story that's told.

As backward I gaze o'er the years, Bright visions of youth I can see, Coming from homes, near and far, More knowledge to seek at my knee.

For nearly a century I've watched them, Come to the call of the bell. Now it has ceased to ring While they troop to your portals, as well.

The motto I have sought to impart, "To thine own self be true." Now, as I sing I sing, This motto I pass on to you.

When you have served your brief day And stand aside to make room for the new, May this be the plaudits of men, To the precepts of G. A., you've been true.

"BUY A FARM NOW" ADVISES OUR SOUTH WOODSTOCK CORRESPONDENT

With our savings banks paying only three per cent. interest, why is this not the proper time to purchase a farm home, say of about one hundred acres, with preferably some buildings which could be made habitable? Farm places were never so cheap in history as at present. A home can be made just as enjoyable on a five hundred dollar place today as on one costing a thousand five years ago.

Cows today can be purchased for an unbelievable few dollars, horses work for their keeping, often times harness and other fittings are thrown in. Most every young man has been through the automobile hallucination. Why not try a farm home this spring? Work out part time the first year or exchange with neighbors your work for supplies. There is many a "Jack Rabbit" farm, which under good cultivation will show one hundred per cent. profit in return. One cow, a pig, a few hens, a wife, a home, and a baby—good intentions to work will soon bring you health and wealth with much happiness.

FARM AND HOME WEEK BREAKS RECORD MARK

Rolling up a total of 1356 official registrations Maine's 28th annual Farm and Home Week held last week at Orono, eclipsed last years figures by 191.

Those registering from Oxford County were: Rena M. Lane, Upton; Mary Ladd, Bethel; Mrs. Horace L. Wordon, Canton Point; Julia H. Adams, Canton Point; Mrs. Fred S. Bennett, South Paris; Marie Abbott, Rumford; Mrs. Gertrude Roberts, Andover; Mrs. Edith K. Howe, East Bethel; Mrs. Marion M. Hamlin, South Waterford; Mrs. Blanche Trask, Bethel; Mrs. A. M. Noble, East Hiram; Mrs. Fred M. Cole, Bryant Pond; Abbie E. Abbott, West Paris; Mrs. Alvah Hendrickson, West Paris; C. H. Holman, Dixfield; Morris Judd, South Paris; Leslie E. McIntire, East Waterford; Elmer A. Trask, Bethel; Austin Stearn, Jr., South Paris; Albert L. Brooks, Brownfield; Willard A. Wyman, Rumford; Mrs. Frank H. Lovejoy, Mexico; Mrs. Jennie V. BEEDEY SAYS THAT U. S. CONSTITUTION MUST BE UPHELD

Maine Representative in Radio Speech Assails Borrowing and Outlines Five Steps for Recovery

In a radio talk over the Columbia network Wednesday night, Congressman Carroll L. Beedy of Portland said that it was the purpose of the administration that the will of the legislative branch be disregarded. He said that Congress had followed the executive will during the past year in the belief that the measures enacted were to be only temporary, and that "only recently was it known, even in Washington, that it is the aim of the present administration to make its temporary measures permanent."

In outlining his five steps toward recovery the Congressman said, "First we must run the Government within the provisions of the Constitution. Second, we must do away with advisors in the White House who are unfriendly to the American system of government. Third, we must abandon Government control of industry and agriculture. Fourth, we must return to sound money. Fifth, we must stop inordinate borrowing, cut government expenditures, and give the Nation a balanced budget."

"It is undoubtedly true," he said, "that the small group of college professors and lawyers, sometimes referred to as the brain trust, knew the ultimate purpose of this administration from the outset. These advisers of the President, if approached individually, will, I believe, frankly acknowledge that they are not altogether in sympathy with the American system of government. It is these men who have drawn the laws and mapped the course of the present administration."

"Business shudders to contemplate what may happen when the President shall have the power to negotiate trade agreements, and upon consultation with his advisers, declare certain American industries inefficient, sell them out, and trade them for foreign imports. Upon what industry will the first blow fall? The marked industry will never be permitted to present its case."

"In the last 13 months the legislative branch of the Government has been swept into the discard. Laws written and forced hurriedly to enactment by the executive branch have changed the very structure of our Government. Property has been taken without due process of law. Our money is of uncertain value. The Treasury has no stable policy. Industry and agriculture are under strict government control."

"Our manufacturing interests are to exist by sufferance and at the mere will of the executive may be struck down in order that the products of foreign labor may enter our market in increased volumes. Uncertainty is everywhere present and no man can say what the morrow may bring forth."

LUMBER BUSINESS CHANGES OWNERS

It is understood from the parties interested that negotiations have been completed for the purchase of the lumber business of H. I. Bean by Leslie E. Davis. This enterprise was started by Mr. Bean several years ago, and he has carried a complete line of lumber and all kinds of building material. For the past few years Mr. Davis has been engaged in the mill business, manufacturing rough and finished lumber and getting out building material to order.

AN OLD CUSTOM PASSES

The bell of Gould Academy, which for many years has called the students to their studies and recitations, has been placed in the museum of the new Academy building. The bell was in the original building, and for over 50 years sounded its call in the building recently vacated. On Friday morning, March 23, it pealed forth its last message, and many of the hundreds of alumni and friends within reach of its sound sadly miss its ringing call.

60 HONORABLY DISCHARGED AT WILD RIVER C. C. C. CAMP

Wild River C. C. C. Camp released 60 youths Saturday with an honorable discharge. Each had served the desired length of time as designated by the Federal government and may not re-enlist, giving those youths who have not been helped by the C. C. C. an opportunity to enlist. Arrangements were made Saturday to take on 100 new recruits, this number being transferred from Fort Williams in Portland Harbor.

The six boys who have been confined to the camp hospital with illness have been transferred to Fort Williams Infirmary where adequate facilities are available for treatment of their cases. Superintendent Robert S. Monahan, who has been in charge of the Wild River C. C. C. Camp since last October, has been transferred to Wildwood Camp near Woodsville, N. H., and R. M. Hutchinson has taken his place.

CHARRED TIMBERS RECALL OLD ACADEMY FIRE

Another event of years ago has been uncovered in the process of tearing down the old Academy building. The charred timbers of the old belfry recall a fire on the evening of February 10, 1898. The fire started in the gymnasium on the third floor and before help arrived had broken through the roof in several places. The blaze was extinguished after an hour's fight, the firemen keeping the blaze on the top story of the building, although the damage from water extended throughout the building. The loss was estimated at $3,000. The remaining two weeks of the winter term were continued in the grammar school building.

LEGION PLANS CELEBRATION

At the last meeting of George A. Mundt Post, American Legion, it was decided to hold a Fourth of July celebration. A program including a parade, sports and fireworks is anticipated. The committee named included E. A. Van, Henry Bennett, A. S. Grover, H. R. Bean, Harold Lurvey, and Milo McAllister.

HARRISON FARM HOUSE BURNED

The farm house on Paradise Hill, owned by Mrs. E. G. Harrison and occupied by Joel Merrill and family, was burned to the ground last Saturday morning. The fire apparently started around the chimney, but when discovered had gained such headway that it was possible to save only a little clothing and a sewing machine. The family is now occupying the house built last year by Veer Bean on the Locke Mills road, where they will stay a few weeks before moving to the town farm.

PURITY CHAPTER ENTERTAINS

A very interesting and enjoyable program was presented at the meeting of Purity Chapter, O. E. S., Wednesday evening to an audience including besides local members some 30 members of Jefferson Chapter of Bryant Pond. A bounteous supper was served before the meeting of the chapter by F. Perley Flint, and the entertainment after the meeting was arranged by Mrs. Alice Brooks. Following the program games and songs were enjoyed by all.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

In accordance with the request of Gov. Brann for a member of the Boy Scouts to be recommended to his staff, Eagle Scout Oliver T. Sanborn of Portland has been recommended. The Governor is making the appointment in recognition of the services the Boy Scouts rendered at the Auburn and Ellsworth fires.

Former high sheriff, Harry Stimpson of Norway, at the request of the Maine Humane Society, is investigating in Oxford County where animals are being undervalued and neglected.

Kingfield's oldest citizen, Mrs. Minerva Stanley, observed her 93d birthday Tuesday.

The "most dangerous inmate" of the State School for Boys, Edward Mallia, 15, was recaptured Thursday after making his fifth escape from the institution.

The Maine State Grange was organized 60 years ago. The first State Grange master was Nelson Ham.

Elvin Williams, 83, was gored to death by a bull on his farm at Houlton, March 30. He leaves a widow and a son.

A mill worker, Aime Fournier of Biddeford, was critically injured Friday night when struck by an automobile. He is suffering from a fractured skull. The driver of the car failed to stop. Fournier is the father of nine children.

Robert E. Talbot, 6, was drowned Sunday when he broke through thin ice while playing in one of the Portland reservoirs.

Five hundred persons attended the reception at the Blaine mansion Saturday night, following the wedding of Gov. Brann's daughter, Marjorie, to William H. Doherty.

The Federal Emergency Relief has taken over all C. W. A. projects that had not been cancelled and will employ only persons actually in need.

For the first time in recent records of the United States Coast Guard a vessel was sent up the Kennebec River Wednesday to break up the thick ice in the channel to prevent possible flood conditions.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL OBSERVES EASTER SUNDAY WITH A SPECIAL PROGRAM

The Methodist Sunday School observed Easter with the following program announced by the Superintendent, Mrs. Myrtle Wilson: Singing by the school Scripture Reading, Wendell Gibbs Prayer, Miss Helen Anderson The Meaning of the Resurrection, John Anderson Primary Dept. Song, Exercise.

Mary Ward, Jacqueline Allen Recitation, Stanley Davis Song, Vivian Berry, Barbara Hall Arlene Greenleaf, Kathryn Davis Exercise and Song, Billie Robertson, Marle Bean, Elizabeth Gorman, Kathryn Morgan, Marle Hall, Robert Weagle and Raymond Wentzel. Dedication Poem, Margaret Hamlin Singing by school

EASY ACES

Once more Mrs. Alberta Wilson proved herself a gracious hostess when she entertained "The Easy Aces" on Tuesday evening at her home on Main Street. Twelve ladies enjoyed the evening at bridge meeting on a 56.50 basis—six members, six substitutes. The cards, dealt presumably for Mrs. Elsie Davis, were ably bid and played by Mrs. Betty Anderson. Mrs. Cassie Thurston batted a high average for Mrs. Ruth Carver; while Mrs. Marguerite Clark, Mrs. Viola Lord, Miss Lucia Van, and Mrs. Marvel Hanscom piled up game scores, grand slams and small slams, too, for Mrs. Olive Lurvey, Mrs. Dorothy Tucker, Mrs. Thelma Van, and Mrs. Grace McFarlane, respectively.

High score taken for the evening was awarded to Mrs. Davis Lord and the consolation to Mrs. Marvel Hanscom.

Miss Maria Robertson has returned to her home after spending the winter at Mrs. Edith Grover's.

WILSON'S MILLS

The Aziscoos High School had a whist party and dance at the Grange Hall, March 30, supper being served after playing whist.

The School is having an Easter vacation of one week beginning April 2d. The teachers, Gwendolyn Mann and Ruby Ritchie, are going to their homes.

Church services were held Wednesday night in Wilson's Mills by the Colebrook Minister and Rev. Clifford Laws. An Easter Sunrise Service was held at the Magalloway Church at six o'clock Sunday morning and a breakfast served at the Willson's Mills Grange Hall at 7:30.

Clifford Olson has spent the week in Magalloway cutting wood for Merton Hoyt and Clifford Littlehale. There is 22 inches of ice in Sawyer Lake. The Brown Company got their ice last week.

A dance took place Monday night in Magalloway for the benefit of the two schools. Music was by the Magalloway Mountaineers.

Mrs. Alice Cameron has just finished crocheting an afghan which she has been working on all winter. It is quite large and very pretty.

Clarence West moved Mike Marshall to his home in Bethel on Thursday.

The men have been working on the road digging out the culverts, etc. There is some bare ground in the road but there is all of two feet of snow in the fields yet, but the ground is not frozen here this year so will go quickly.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners for the County of Oxford:

Respectfully represents the Municipal Officers of Hanover in said county that at the annual meeting of the town duly called and held, on the fifth day of March, 1934, the following article was inserted in the warrant thereof, viz: "To see if the town will vote to give the selectmen authority to take measures to discontinue the ferry"; and that upon said article being placed before said meeting and fully considered, the said selectmen were directed to petition, in the name of the said town of Hanover, the said county commissioners to discontinue said ferry, for the reason that travel across said ferry is not sufficient to require the maintenance of said ferry, and that said ferry is no longer necessary.

Petition therefore is hereby made, that after due notice and hearing, by your honorable board said ferry may be discontinued.

"Since Maine's northerly climate is conducive to rickets, a plentiful supply of vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus is essential to the health of both the livestock and people," says W. F. Dove of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station. However he adds, "Maine is fortunate to have access to a large fishing industry, the by-products of which contain these essential elements. New methods of processing—under heavy vacuum—preserve these food factors for the animals to which they are fed, and make it possible to produce farm products of a superior quality."

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of the County of Oxford:

Respectfully represents the Municipal Officers of Bethel in said county, that for the annual meeting of said town, duly called and held, on the fifth day of March, 1934, the following article was inserted, viz: "To see if the Town will petition the County Commissioners to discontinue the Hanover Ferry road, so-called, leading from the main highway between East Bethel and Rumford; and that upon said article being placed before said meeting and fully considered, the said municipal officers were directed by the voters present at said meeting to petition the said commissioners, in the name of the Town, to discontinue said road, leading to said Ferry, for the reason that travel across said Ferry is not sufficient to require the maintenance of said road at large expense to said town and said road is no longer necessary.

Petition, therefore, is hereby made to your honorable board that after due notice and hearing, said highway, or Ferry road, may be discontinued.

WEST PARIS AND VICINITY

"INDIAN SIGN" WRITTEN BY WEST PARIS WOMAN, TO BE PRESENTED THERE IN MAY

Mrs. Jennie Brown Dunham recently spent two weeks in Massachusetts and while in Boston secured materials for costumes for the eighteen characters portrayed in her drama, "The Indian Sign." Mrs. Dunham wrote this play a few years ago but has recently revised and improved it with added authentic Indian legends, also a rare correct form of an Indian wedding. Encouragement has been given the author that later this play might be used as a scenario for a moving picture. By request of officials and the entertainment committee of the Arthur L. Mann Public Library, Mrs. Dunham will present this play for the benefit of the Library about the first of May. Some of the best local talent has been secured for this purpose and rehearsals will begin in the near future. It may be remembered that about a year ago, a thirty minute sketch from this play received favorable comment when it was used at a public entertainment in the Grange Hall.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Easter Sunday—The Holy Day—consecrated to commemorate the resurrection of Jesus Christ. A most pleasant reminder that Sunday being the first day of the month, there will be five Sundays in the month of April.

The day has been warm. The morning up to nearly noon was cloudy, but at mid-day the sun came out with a glorious splendor and the earth and mankind rejoice.

All the logging teams and men are home from the logging woods. On the whole profitable results have been accomplished. The men from Camp Molly Ockett report over a thousand cords for their credit for the logging season of 1933 and '34.

Melford Perham has recently exchanged his truck for another and will now try to fill his many waiting orders for wood delivery.

The syrup makers have been having rather a discouraging time during the sap season. So far the gentle rains and copious snow flurries have caused much extra work in keeping the buckets clear for the sap flow. Many orchards are playing a losing game.

Lots of calls for hay at the present time. Pressed hay bringing $22.50 per ton, loose hay bringing $18. Many are buying both loose and pressed hay using the different kinds to feed alternately.

Mr. and Mrs. Corry Bonney of West Sumner have been spending a week as guests of A. M. Andrews. Mr. and Mrs. Corry Bonney of self generally useful in looking after all the stray odds and ends of the general work.

Mrs. Jessie Andrews has been entertaining her aunt, Mrs. Lottie Jackson of Auburn, also many other family friends and relatives from away.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Andrews are away, going to Springfield, Mass., March 30, to visit with relatives and during this visit will go to the Shriners Hospital, where Stanley will report for a final examination of his hand, which has been doing well since his operation in December, when it was found that a three months' rest must be taken that the operation might be successful.

The robins have arrived. "Tweet, Tweet." "They have come," and we hastened to the door. Sure enough, in a tall tree in the garden, where they have never failed to nest for many years. We welcomed their arrival. Mr. Robin, settling on a topmost limb, while the Mrs. was looking over the remains of a former cozy home. This all took place March 31. Perhaps it might not be just the proper thing to say but she was wearing her last year's clothes and no signs of a new Easter bonnet.

WEST PARIS

The Bates Literary Club met with Miss Ruth Tucker last Friday afternoon.

There was appropriate Easter music and sermon at the Universalist Church Sunday morning. One young man received the rite of Baptism.

Lewis J. Mann and college friend, Lawrence Jackson, have returned to the University of Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bernaski are spending a two weeks' vacation in New York.

Mrs. Lennie Gould, who is at the State Street Hospital, Portland, has undergone a serious surgical operation. Latest reports are that she is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Helene Bubler of South Paris spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Clara Ridlon, Park Street.

Mrs. Helene Bubler of South Paris, spent Friday with Mrs. Henry K. Stearns at Hebron.

Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes preached at the Union Church, Locke Mills, Sunday evening. She was accompanied by Mrs. Walter Ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Knight, Jr., are spending the week at Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ross and family, Maple Street, have moved from the Curtis house to the Henry Noyes house, Church Street.

Miss Ellen B. Smith of Mechanic Falls, is visiting Mrs. H. R. Tuell.

MRS. ALPHREDA E. FIFIELD

Mrs. Alphreda Estelle Fifield, widow of D. Henry Fifield, died at her home on Main Street, Friday, at two o'clock, a. m., after an illness of nearly seven weeks from paralytic shock. Mrs. Fifield was the daughter of James Corrydon and Alphreda Swan Perry and was born in Paris, March 3d, 1860.

Mrs. Fifield received her education in the public schools of Paris and at Kent's Hill. Before her marriage she taught school in Woodstock.

She was united in marriage with Mr. Fifield in November, 1881. Two children were born of this union, Clyde C. who survives, and True P., who died when a baby. She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. W. E. Bosserman, of Bethel; a niece, Mrs. E. L. Brown, of Bethel; and two cousins, Miss Emma Swan and Mrs. Gertrude Stuart, of Auburn. She was a charter member of Onward Rebekah Lodge and was a Universalist in faith.

Mrs. Fifield's life was devoted to her home and family. Her son, an invalid, has always been her unceasing care. For 46 years she has spent her life in loving devotion to his needs, rarely ever leaving her home. She was a kind neighbor and friend and held the respect of all who knew her. Mr. and Mrs. Fifield celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary by a largely attended reception at the Universalist Church.

The funeral was held from the Universalist Church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes officiating. Onward Rebekah Lodge attended in a body. There were beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were P. C. Mayhew, Albert Jackson, R. T. Flavin and Charles Barden. The remains were placed in Wayside receiving tomb.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown, Bethel; Mrs. Lizzie Cummings and Mrs. Henry Cummings, Dorchester, Mass.; Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Fifield, Mr. and Mrs. James Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodhall, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fifield, Earl Fifield and friend.

Perkins Valley — Woodstock

Maud Benson returned home Sunday night from her work at West Paris, caring for Mrs. D. H. Fifield, who passed away Friday, March 30.

Buster Poland is working for Maurice Benson on the truck. Carl Franz was in Lewiston on Tuesday. He spent Monday night with Alfred Thurlow on Pigeon Hill.

Wilma Hendrickson returned home Friday from Orono, where she has been a delegate for the Farm Bureau.

Maud Benson and Leon Poland and wife were in Lewiston shopping Tuesday.

Albert Felt was through this part of the town assessing for taxes.

Everell Wilson and family have moved to North Leeds, where he has several jobs of carpenter work.

Trucking is at a standstill for a short time until the roads get settled.

Arthur Thurlow worked for Nelson Perham Monday, hauling lumber.

WITH THE POETS

DEATH IN THE NORTH WOODS

Edwin Carlile Litsey in "Our Dumb Animals"

The trap snapped shut with a vicious click
Where it lay near a mossy stone;
Its steel teeth bit through skin and they
And dented deep the bone.

The white fox threshed the drifted snow
And panted and tugged in vain;
For it was held in the jaws, of death
At the end of a strong-linked chain.

Both day and night it felt the pangs
Of hunger, thirst and cold.
The hunter had gone to town for food;
As traps that caught would hold.

So the white fox bled and starved
And froze
At the end of the strong-linked chain,
Through hours of silent agony,
Of ripping, rending pain.

Through endless days and age-long nights
It fought till its strength was gone;
Then finally there came release:
It died one early dawn.

That handsome fur about your throat
Which came from the white fox slain—
Was it worth the price, do you think, madame?
Not in gold, but in blood and pain.

FATHER

Edmund Vance Cooke

He was not the kind of a father
That you read about in books,
He wasn't strong on language and he wasn't strong on looks.
He was not the sort of a father
you hear about in plays,
He was just a human father with a human father's ways.

No, he never balked at working,
but when he was through at once,
Right down to the grass was father, with the children, doing stunts.

All of us would pile up on him and he'd welcome all the pack,
But I'm wondering, after play time
did we stay there—on his back?

Wasn't strong on dissipation, said
his "gambol on the green"
Was to fill the platter faster than the kids could lick it clean,
And the next best game he knew of was an equal one to beat;
It was keeping leather covers up to the supply of feet.

Always on the job was father,
plugging steady-like and strong,
Never making any noise, but helping all his little world along.
And to think! Lord! ain't it funny you can see things years and years

And yet never know you've seen them, till your eyes are blind with tears.

Quit his job one day and left us,
smiling as he went away;
Eulogy seems all so foolish
What can anybody say?

Seemed like even in his leaving he was saving someone bother,
For the one word on the granite,
which lies over him is "Father."

GORHAM NORMAL SCHOOL

Miss Maxine Clemons, of Hiram, was the speaker at the regular prayer meeting of the Young Woman's Christian Association Thursday evening. The meeting was attended by a large representative body of the students.

The last of the inter-class volley ball games was played off this past week leaving the Advanced Seniors the winners of the tournament, after the game with the Advanced Seniors and Mid-seniors, a score of 6-0. The points were as follows: Advanced Seniors 11, Mid-seniors 10, and the Juniors 6.

The Glee Club sponsored an Easter Chapel Program Friday morning. The program was a very effective one being as follows:

Processional, "Hallelujah" Selection, "Goin' Home" Prayer, Reita MacDonald, Portland Response, Glee Club Selection, "No Shadows Yonder" Recessional, "Hallelujah"

Miss Maxine Clemons of Hiram sang the solo parts in the two selections, being noted as the most prominent singer in the Glee Club at present. All the members of the Glee Club were dressed alike, wearing black dresses with white collars. Miss Avis Hinds of Rumford was the Club pianist.

The Poetry Club chose a nominating committee to suggest possible officers for the coming year, at their last meeting. Among those chosen were President, Barbara Howard, Rumford; and Secretary, Myrtle Pratt of Upton.

The Dramatic Club of the Gorham Normal School, recently voted to buy a radio for the school. This radio will be a small one and will be installed in the new Russell Hall Gymnasium.

GOULD ACADEMY NOTES

The spring term of school opened in the new building, Tuesday,
April 3d.

First call for track and baseball candidates was issued Tuesday.
Baseball prospects, under the direction of Coach Anderson and the track squad under the direction of Coach Fossett, are working out daily in preparation for the coming schedules.

The debating class, under the direction of Mr. Fossett, has recently completed a series of debates on subjects of local and student interest. This class has met weekly throughout the winter and latter part of the fall term. Its members include: Harlan Hutchins, Beatrice
Morrill, Frances Morrill, Margaret
Hamlin, Richard Young, Henry
Hastings, Jr., Phyllis Davis, Marion King, Rosalind Rowe, Chester Wheeler, Dwight Siles, Margaret Tibbets, Rita Hutchins, Barbara Moore, Howard Thurston, and Clement Philbrook.

The senior boys' basketball team defeated the juniors 31-22 in the championship game marking the close of the inter-class basketball season. The juniors copped an early lead, but after the first period the seniors, aided by Whit-man's shooting and clever team work on the part of his teammates, gained a steady lead. The summary:

SENIORS	G	F	T
Hutchins,	2	1	5
Whitman,	9	2	20

Referee, Myers; scorer, H.
Young; Timer, P. Daniels.

The standing in the boys' inter-class basketball league at the end of two rounds of play was as follows:

	Won	Lost
Seniors,	4	2
Juniors,	4	2
Sophomores,	3	3
Freshmen,	1	5

The play-off of the tie between the seniors and juniors resulted in the 31-22 championship victory won by the seniors.

Last declamations of the winter term were given by the following:
Richard Marshall, Marjorie Berry,
Elizabeth Beane, Sally King, Jane
Linston, Betty Edwards, Howard
Thurston, Herbert Morton, Lillian Juddins, Verna Grover, Helen Philbrook, Norwood Waterhouse, Naomi Heald, Betty Soule, Evelyn War-

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Mary, daughter of David Brown, self made millionaire, obsessed with the idea that her personality is obscured by the fact that she is the child of the "rich David Brown," determines to make her own way in life, discarding her father's wealth, and her own. She has a million dollars, legacy from her mother, which she insists her father invest in the "wildest dream" imaginable, and about which she must know nothing. She is a graduate of a college of engineering. Her father, secretly admiring her courage, humors her.

CHAPTER II

Miss Mary Has a Job.

IT WAS a day in early fall when David Brown returned from the New York banking house with which he was identified to his home on the Hudson, to find the place in a state of wild confusion.

"What's up, Henry?" "Miss Mary has a job, sir." As the daughter of her father, Mary might have stepped from the classroom into a position to which it would have taken her years to work up; without any entering wedge, just as one of the hundreds of Mary Browns in the world, it had taken several months.

Brown went on up the stairs. "Oh, dad! Dad darling!" A starry-eyed vision in pink silk negligee leaped a rugged range of putts and boots, a shimmering sea of satin, and landed with her arms about her father, whirling him about several times, and climaxed her released feelings by a whirlwind tap dance.

"Shake a foot, dad! It's to celebrate!"

David Brown watched the slippered feet for a moment, then matched her steps. "Just to show you that sixty years haven't got me down! From conversation I overheard as I came up the stairs, you have a job. Where is it?" "It's in California. Paradise Valley."

"Paradise?" "Good, isn't it, that name?" "Yes, Yes. But who is the promoter, or the development company? What rating? What do you know about the project?"

Mary laughed. "You'd be surprised. I received a cheap-looking little magazine in the mails one day a while ago, and opened it to find myself invited to invest in a home for my old age in the most ideal home site in the world—Paradise Valley. Invited to come and pioneer de luxe. For scenery, the magazine assured me, the place has the Alps backed right off the map. It aims to attract the moneyed, dad, since no house can cost less than ten thousand—or was it one hundred thousand? That idea, anyhow, I figured it would require considerable development work to create a place like that—at least it sounds like a big order—so I applied as a pioneer of progress, and this morning had orders to report for duty."

Mary picked up the momentous document, Paradise Valley, she read the heading and again her father repeated her words. Mary paused, but he motioned her to go on. For reasons of his own he kept silent. If he told her certain things he might have told her what good would it do? No good. Her first project would go "blamey" before she ever set out for it.

"October 20, 1933." Mary read on. Then, for reasons of her own she skipped the rest of the heading and would just worry the more, the farther, and everything would be all right, and read the body of the letter. It was brief enough.

"We can put you to work. Report at once. Salary $300 and food expenses."

"JOHN STARK, Engineer in Chief."

"I can live on that!" Mary hastened to assure her father before he had time to remonstrate.

But he agreed with her. "Yes. It's about one-fourth of what your pin-money allowance has been, but you can live on it. Well, this sounds like rather an interesting adventure. Besides, I know Stark well. He makes it easier for me to let you go, daughter. He's—the right sort. One of the old-timers."

Mary wrecked his collar with a bear hug. "I knew you'd be for it."

He glanced about the room. "I've noticed a few evidences that you were assuming my consent. Well, in the circumstances, why wouldn't it be a good idea for the poor working girl to accept a lift part of the way? I'm going as far as New Orleans, leaving at midnight."

"That will be great, dad!" "Can you be ready?"

"I can be ready in five minutes."

The trip to New Orleans in the private car with its splendid appointments, its valet and maid service, was without thrill or excitement, being as familiar as bread and butter. Adventure began when she went aboard the pullman on the westbound train at New Orleans.

"Surely you'll at least take a compartment!" her father had urged. "Ridiculous! I could live for a week on the extra fare."

"I'll stake you to it as a going-away present."

Mary drew herself up primly. "Sir, I can accept no favors from benevolent elderly gentlemen—however sweet."

But when they entered the pullman to find the seat opposite Mary's reservation occupied by a man's hat and bag, again David Brown remonstrated. But Mary was adamant. "This will be just fun, dad! I'm to rub elbows with 'he world. How start better than by treading on the toes of the man in upper six?"

The porter's "All aboard!" came quickly, and Mary stood in the vestibule to wave good-by.

Just as if he hadn't been father and mother and so close a friend that her going created an ache deep within him; just as if he didn't worry over her safety, secretly, David Brown waved back to her. The modern girl hates scenes, and he knew it. He could be a good sport in the modern way.

Mary Brown went slowly back through the narrow corridor to her section. She settled herself with as much awe, with as much a thrilling to newness and mystery and adventure as if it were her first trip abroad. And in a sense, it was. Always before she had been the daughter of the rich David Brown. Now she was plain Mary Brown, herself. A different person. Her pulses quickened with excitement, eagerness.

Mary Brown, herself had entered on her career.

She adventured back to the parlor car. Every one seemed to be trying to find out all about one person, a very fair young man with an engaging personality. He was light of build, immaculate of dress, with a scrubbed and tubbed look. His features were finely molded. His mouth had been fashioned to a faint smile that came easily. Deep blue eyes, companions of the mouth in their humorous glint on life, challenged one to guess whether they were the eyes of a freemason or a hard-headed business man. The sort of man to make to-and-fro.

And yet the first words she heard him utter antagonized Mary Brown. "Money talks," he was laughing as she appeared to the doorway.

It's the sine qua non of all our endeavors, of our successes. With it our dreams must end just as dreams, not as achievement. And it's hard to get? I know! I've pleaded, begged, coaxed, entreated, demanded, and threatened in the interest of this scheme of mine. Amazing, how hard it is to convince moneyed interests that you have a good thing, but," whimsically, "perhaps that's why they're moneyed now—"

He broke off to spring to his feet. He alone had noticed Mary entering the car. There were no vacant chairs. "Will you sit here?" he asked with his intriguing smile.

But it was lost on Mary. "Thank you. I'm going outside," she replied, indifferently.

The door banged behind her, shutting out further conversation. "A spell-binder," she diagnosed the fair young man. "Selling himself and heaven knows what else by the magic of his personality. I wish dad could see him work!"

Then she turned her back upon the guileless-looking individual who so unconsciously had courted her disfavor. Just another person whose god was money!

Mary realized she was hungry; it was dinner time. She hurried back, tidied herself a bit, and went forward to the diner.

When she returned to her section the seat across from her was occupied—by the fair young man! He arose as she hesitated by her seat.

"I've been wondering who my neighbor was," he said pleasantly. "My name is Denis Craig. I hope I'm not to be in your way here."

Mary acknowledged the introduction by no more than a suspicion of a nod. If she had deigned him a glance, she would have seen the blue eyes darken mischievously. "I can see that I'm not going to be in your way, however. Something tells me I'm practically not here at all."

"At least," Mary couldn't keep back, "it ought to make a nice change for you. It must be—fatiguing—to be hero-worshipped. I always feel sorry for movie idols, golf pros, baseball stars, prize-dents—"

She hesitated, not knowing just where to catalogue him.

"In some places," he supplied banteringly. "I have the reputation of being a professional swindler."

"How interesting! And your line, from scraps I overheard, may be oil stock or real estate."

"Good guess!" he laughed. "It's real estate. Would you be interested?"

"I'll save you exertion by saying I haven't money enough to buy the fence around it, let alone the orange ranch, Statue of Liberty, Masonic Temple or Golden Gate. Oh, Mrs. Craig!" Mary sprang up with a sudden change of manner as the fatherly farmer and his wife stopped across the aisle. "Is this your section? How nice! May I drop over for a little chat with you?" And she seated herself beside the pair at whose table she had been placed in the diner.

But unfortunately Denis Craig had warmed to them, too, and they to him.

"Well now, ain't this nice, being neighbors, us four? Come over and join us, Mr. Craig. You've met Miss Brown, of course?"

The blue eyes twinkled wickedly. "To be exact, I believe Miss Brown has met me, but I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting her. Thanks, I won't join you just now. I want to find the porter."

"It won't do you any good," Mary said. "My father tried to get me a whole section—but the train is too crowded."

"Still, it won't do any harm to try," lightly. "Every man has his price, they say."

"You may discover," Mary did not try to disguise her scorn, "that money isn't everything."

Denis Craig looked surprised at this sudden burst of strong feeling, but the amusement deepened in his eyes.

He went on down the corridor. Mary kept the conversation away from nice young men, thus scubbling her own ridiculous curiosity as to this particular one who presently returned and began gathering up his luggage.

"I don't quite see how you—managed!" Mary said.

His blue eyes were dancing. "I just raised the ante."

He followed the porter down the aisle to the undesirable berth just over the wheels—for which he had just paid a premium.

Mary Brown, as she retired, felt uncomfortably as if she literally had trodden on the toes of this man. Why had she been so rude as to do so? Why had she even been interested enough to do so?

To be continued.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

L. A. Edwards, Pastor

9.30 Church School. Miss Ida Packard, Superintendent. The Pastor will present the fourth talk on the Four T's.

11.00 Morning Worship. The Pastor will choose as his subject "Witness Bearers." Is Christ commended or condemned by our testimony? We are convinced that fewer people read the Bible than was formerly the practice; but every professing Christian is daily read by his or her associates. There is indeed "A gospel according to you."

6.00 The Comrades of the Way will hold a Former Members Meeting, when we hope to have many former members with us. The open meeting will be followed by a social hour with refreshments.

METHODIST CHURCH

R. C. Dalzell, Pastor

9.45 Sunday School. Supt. Mrs. Myrtle Lapham.

11.00 Morning Worship. Topic—"Another Chance." Reception on probation and baptism.

6.30 Epworth League.

7.30 Evening Service. Topic—"Justification by Faith."

7.30 Tuesday evening prayer service.

On Thursday the Ladies Aid meets with Mrs. H. I. Bean, Roll Call, Quotations from Scottish poets. Historical sketch of Scotland, Mrs. Mary Lapham, Robert Burns, Mrs. Millie Wentzel, Scottish Customs, Mrs. Elsie Davis, Scottish song, by the Aid, Mrs. Bean, Reading, Mrs. Ada Tyler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

Services Sunday morning at 10:45. Subject of the lesson sermon, Unreality.

Wednesday testimonial meeting at 7:30 p. m.

EAST BETHEL

Mrs. Irving Kimball spent a few days last week at her home here.

Mrs. Ada Abbott of Casco has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Nina Swan and helping in the care of her.

Cleve Bartlett of Framingham, Mass., is moving his family here for the summer. They will occupy a rent in Leslie Noyes' house.

William S. Hastings is making extensive alterations on his home, enlarging the kitchen and shed, also two new porches.

Mrs. Edith Howe has returned from her stay at Orono where she was sent as a delegate from the Farm Bureau.

Porter Farwell has returned from his visit with his daughter, Mrs. B. J. Russell, at Rumford.

To Miss Vesta Stokes, 20, of Portland, goes the honor of being chosen Festival of States Queen for 1934, at St. Petersburg, Fla. The selection was made at a review in which girls from each of the 48 States and several foreign countries took part.

Miss Huldah Stearns returned to Bethel Saturday after spending the Easter vacation with her brother Hugh Stearns and family.

Arthur Wardwell worked for Leo Stearns Saturday cutting cornwood.

Roy Wardwell recently traded calves with Fred Scribner.

Mrs. Robert Hill was a business visitor in North Waterford Friday. Elmer Saunders recently spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wardwell.

Many of the farmers in this locality are buying hay.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Sawin have returned to their home here after spending the winter at South Waterford.

Several have tapped their saw orchards but not a very good sap run so far.

Howard Allen was in Bethel on Saturday.

Mrs. Stasia Stearns will teach the Clark School again beginning Monday, April 3.

Many are having hard colds.

Miss Winola Kimball spent the week end at home.

Adelmar Morgan from Bethel was a week end guest at Leon Kimball's.

Elmer Dingley from Harrison called at David McAllister's Sunday.

"Our stock doesn't live long enough," W. F. Kirkpatrick of Connecticut said in addressing Maine poultrymen at Orono last week. "We have been too hot after eggs and only lukewarm on health. We have run after the false gods of pullet breeding and forgotten the while that old hens have less trouble with cannibalism and bronchitis and a host of other troubles to which poultry is heir. Some of us have forgotten that the faith, hope and charity of the poultry business is feeding, rearing, and breeding and that the greatest of these is breeding, but not from pullets."

Announcement

I have leased the Gulf Service Station on Railroad Street and will carry on this business in addition to my radio sales and service.
